Staff Review

There is a lot of talk about climate change at the moment and this informative picture book is aimed at mid to upper primary children. It explains the difference between weather and climate, and what it is scientists are worried about.

It covers clean energy, renewables, solutions and making a difference, so readers come away with a good introduction to climatology and the optimism to affect change.

Colourfully presented, with jokes scattered about, so by no means a deadly dull book of facts!
